

CSH-3 Seoul City Tour (1 Day)

A space where the past and present coexist “Bukchon Hanok Village”

Bukchon was a residential area for the upper class during the Joseon Dynasty and did not change much until the 1920s. In the 1930s, changes took place as the administrative districts of Seoul were expanded and the urban structure was transformed into a modern one.

Housing management companies collectively built small and medium-sized hanoks in Bukchon, and developed various cultural spaces and cafes, restaurants, craft shops, and art workshops renovated hanok buildings.

There are many alleys in Bukchon, and 8 hot spots have been designated by the Seoul Metropolitan Government. This representative of Bukchon is one of the attractions that many tourists visit.
